"SAVE OUR LITTLE NELL."

Words by W. MURDOCH LIND. Music by HOMER TOURJÉE.

Moderato.

The night was dark and stormy, The snow fell ev'ry-
The doctor's hand lay softly, Up on his daughter's where, The doctor in his parlor Sat with his daughter fair, When curls, "I'll do my best," he murmured, "For yoursake and the girl's." Then suddenly there entered A man with voice so mild, "O swiftly in his carriage Through streets and lanes they passed, "Please doc-tor come," in grief he cried, and save our dar-ling child! My wife is weak and has-ten, doc-tor," begged the man; "be-fore she breathes her last?" At length beside the sick-ly, No work have I to do; We've spent my scanty sav-ings, There's suf-frer The kind phy-si-cian stood; He gave the fa-ther mon-ey For no more left for you. But don't re-fuse to help us O doc-tor, do not med-i-cine and food. The trem-bling par-ents watched him With dim and tear-ful wait! I beg you quick-ly come with me, Or else we'll be too late! eye, Un-til he smiled and said "she's safe, For Heav'n has heard your cry!"
